About The Law Society of Singapore

The Law Society of Singapore is the representative body for all lawyers in Singapore. Established under the Legal Profession Act 1966, it works to uphold the honour and independence of the legal profession, promote the interests of its members, and ensure access to justice by the public. The Law Society provides guidance, education, and advocacy on matters of law, and engages in community outreach to improve legal awareness. Through its initiatives, the Law Society strives to maintain the highest standards of professional conduct and to contribute meaningfully to Singapore's legal landscape. The mission of the Law Society is to serve its members and the public by sustaining an independent bar which upholds the rule of law and ensures access to justice.
